

Create Your Own Family Tree Record Sheets & Pedigree Charts

Student's Notes Page

Tips for Step 20

Step 20: Create your own Family Tree Record Sheets and Pedigree Charts

Creating family tree record sheets and pedigree charts is an important part of any genealogical research project. These tools can help you organize your research and keep track of your findings. Here are some tips for creating your own family tree record sheets and pedigree charts:

2. Download pre-made charts and sheets - There are many websites online where you can download pre-made family tree record sheets and pedigree charts. Here are a few websites you can visit to find free downloadable charts and sheets:

- Family Tree Magazine:

<https://www.familytreemagazine.com/free-forms/>

- Ancestry.com: <https://www.ancestry.com/cs/charts-and-forms>

- MyHeritage: <https://www.myheritage.com/free-genealogy-forms>

3. Customize your own charts and sheets - If you prefer, you can also create your own family tree record sheets and pedigree charts. You can use software such as Microsoft Excel or Google Sheets to create custom charts and sheets that meet your specific needs.

4. Record your information in an orderly manner - Regardless of whether you use pre-made charts and sheets or create your own, it's important to record your information in a neat and orderly manner. This will make it easier to read and understand your research, and will also help you identify any missing information or errors.

5. Attach any documents and photographs to the family record - In addition to recording basic information about each family member, it's also a good idea to attach any relevant documents and photographs to your family record. This can include birth certificates, marriage licenses, obituaries, and photographs of family members.

By creating your own family tree record sheets and pedigree charts, you can organize your research and ensure that your findings are accurate and complete. Whether you download pre-made charts and sheets or create your own, be sure to record your information in an orderly manner and attach any relevant documents and photographs to your family record.

5 Tips and Strategies

Step 20 - Create your own Family Tree Record Sheets and Pedigree Charts

Creating your own family tree record sheets and pedigree charts is a crucial step in genealogical research. Not only does it help you organize your findings, but it can also help identify gaps in your research and lead you to discover new information. Here are some tips and strategies to help you create your own family tree record sheets and pedigree charts.

1. Start with a basic chart or sheet template There are many templates available online that you can use to create your family tree record sheets and pedigree charts. These templates can be customized to fit your needs, and many are available for free. Starting with a basic template can save you time and ensure that you have all the necessary information.
2. Be consistent with your data entry It's important to maintain consistency when entering data on your family tree record sheets and pedigree charts. For example, if you use a specific date format, make sure that you use that format consistently throughout your research. This will make it easier to read and understand your research, and will also help you identify any missing information or errors.
3. Record sources and attach documents Recording sources is essential when it comes to genealogical research. Make sure to note where you obtained your information, so you can revisit the source later if necessary. It's also a good idea to attach any relevant documents and photographs to your family record. This can include birth certificates, marriage licenses, obituaries, and photographs of family members.

4. Update your charts and sheets regularly As your research progresses, your family tree record sheets and pedigree charts will grow and change. It's important to update your charts and sheets regularly to ensure that they remain accurate and up-to-date. This will also help you identify any missing information or errors.
5. Use online genealogy software Online genealogy software can help you create family tree record sheets and pedigree charts quickly and easily. Many online genealogy websites offer these tools for free or for a fee. They can also help you identify missing information and link you to relevant records.

By following these tips and strategies, you can create accurate and comprehensive family tree record sheets and pedigree charts. These tools will help you organize your research and lead you to new discoveries. Remember to be consistent with your data entry, record your sources and attach documents, update your charts and sheets regularly, and consider using online genealogy software.

Quiz - Step 20

1. What are family tree record sheets and pedigree charts used for?
 - A. Organizing and keeping track of genealogical research
 - B. Planning family reunions
 - C. Documenting medical histories
 - D. Tracking financial information

2. Where can you find free downloadable family tree record sheets and pedigree charts?
 - A. Genealogy libraries only
 - B. Ancestry.com
 - C. Hospitals
 - D. Social media websites

3. What software can you use to create custom family tree record sheets and pedigree charts?
 - A. Microsoft Excel or Google Sheets
 - B. Photoshop or Illustrator
 - C. Final Cut Pro or Adobe Premiere
 - D. Auto CAD or SketchUp

4. What should you attach to your family record besides basic information?

- A. Birth certificates, marriage licenses, obituaries, and photographs of family members
- B. Grocery lists and shopping receipts
- C. Bank statements and credit reports
- D. Movie tickets and concert stubs

5. Why is it important to create family tree record sheets and pedigree charts?

- A. To preserve your research for future generations
- B. To create a detailed medical history
- C. To plan family vacations
- D. To track your family's financial assets

Answers to Step 20 Quiz

1. Answer: A

2. Answer: B

3. Answer: A

4. Answer: A

5. Answer: A